Chief Human Resources Officer

Dantaya Williams is the chief human resources officer at Raytheon Technologies. She is responsible for the company's Global Human Resources function, which is focused on talent management, diversity and inclusion, employee relations, total rewards and employee experience.

Williams, who joined United Technologies Corporation prior to the company's 2020 merger with Raytheon Company, has more than 20 years of human resources and leadership experience. Most recently, she held the position of vice president of human resources for Pratt & Whitney Commercial Engines.

Prior to that, Williams held a leadership position at UTC, where she established the company's Talent, Inclusion and Engagement organization. She has also worked in numerous positions across UTC's Carrier division with a focus on labor relations.

She received the 2019 Maria Miller Stewart – One Woman Makes a Difference Award from the Connecticut Women's Education and Legal Fund for her commitment to community service. In 2013, she joined the board of trustees for the Boys & Girls Clubs of Hartford and chaired the board's HR committee and served on both the governance and executive committees. Williams is currently on the board of directors for YWCA Hartford region and The Connecticut Forum.

She earned a bachelor's degree in psychology and a master's degree in labor relations and human resources from Michigan State University where she now serves as vice chair of the advisory board for the University's School of Human Resources and Labor Relations.
