

Frank R. Jimenez

Office of General Counsel

Frank R. Jimenez leads the office of general counsel of Raytheon Technologies, where he oversees a variety of legal and regulatory affairs, including corporate governance and transactions, ethics and compliance, litigation, contracts, and intellectual property.

Jimenez's career includes legal leadership positions in military agencies, civil government and public companies in the private sector. Most recently he was vice president, general counsel and corporate secretary of Raytheon Company prior to its merger with United Technologies Corporation in 2020.

Jimenez previously served as general counsel of three S&P 500 companies, including ITT Corp. and Bunge Ltd. Before that, he served as the 21st General Counsel of the Navy, where he was one of seven Senate-confirmed Pentagon civilians of four-star equivalent rank overseeing the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps. He was also the deputy general counsel for the U.S. Department of Defense, chief of staff at the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and deputy chief of staff to the governor of Florida.

Jimenez holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Miami, a juris doctor degree from Yale Law School, an MBA from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania and a master's degree in national security and strategic studies from the U.S. Naval War College.
